Re: H.R. 4188, IDEA Fairness Restoration Act
Support from 96 Disability Organizations Nationwide

Dear Member of Congress,

The undersigned 96 organizations ask you to cosponsor the IDEA Fairness Restoration Act, H.R. 4188. This bill, sponsored by Congressman Chris Van Hollen (D-MD) and Pete Sessions (R-TX), will restore Congress' original plan to enable parents of children with disabilities who prevail in judicial proceedings to recover their expert witness fees. Passing this bill is important to keep the process fair for the nearly 7 million children with disabilities.

The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act requires school districts to provide children with a free appropriate public education. But when school districts provide an education so inferior that it fails this basic legal obligation, parents can seek an impartial due process hearing to protect their child's rights. Expert testimony is often necessary in such cases. While parents who prevail can recover their attorneys' fees, they cannot recover expert witness costs as a result of the Supreme Court's decision in Arlington Central School District v. Murphy (2006). The IDEA Fairness Restoration Act will override this decision and help make the process fair for parents. (Parents proceed to litigation only as a last resort. In 2003, the GAO reported that there were only 5 hearings per 10,000 special education students. Only parents who prevail can recover attorneys' fees and would recover expert witness fees.)

H.R. 4188 will restore Congress' original intent when it passed the Handicapped Children's Protection Act of 1986--to allow prevailing parents to recover their expert witness fees. Congress knew then that parents have far fewer resources than school districts and most cannot afford expert witness fees. Twenty-one years later, this remains true. Approximately 36% of children with disabilities live in families earning less than $25,000 a year; about 2/3 live in families earning less than $50,000 a year. Few parents can afford the thousands of dollars needed to pay qualified medical, educational, and technical experts. While parents must hire expert witnesses to testify, school districts can use therapists, psychologists, and other expert witnesses on their payroll or hire witnesses at public expense.

Please cosponsor H.R. 4188, the IDEA Fairness Restoration Act, and help protect the rights of the nearly 7 million children with disabilities to a free appropriate public education.
